

NEW GERMAN JABS CHECKED BY YANKS

B-29's Hit 3 Jap Industrial Cities

ENEMY CLAIMS 90 BIG RAIDERS STAGE ASSAULT

Nipponese Admit Damage In Latest Blows At Nagoya, Osaka, Hamamatsu

By The Associated Press. Super-Forts opened their 1945 campaign against Japanese war industries Wednesday, striking at three important manufacturing cities in the greatest force official Tokyo has yet reported over the main island of Nippon.

The raid was made in bright sunlight less than 12 hours after Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that his Philippines-based bombers were operating off the coast of Formosa, primary enemy staging base between Japan and the Philippines.

A Japanese communique reported that about 90 Saipan-based B-29's made today's attack on Japan. The main force hit the repeatedly-bombed aircraft city of Nagoya, while other units struck at the flanking cities of Osaka and Hamamatsu.

All are industrial areas on the south central coast of Honshu, main island of Japan.

Tokyo claimed that 17 super-forts were shot down and 25 damaged. The enemy communique claimed three were brought down by suicide interceptors, but at the same time said only two fighters had failed to return.

The communique admitted "some damages were inflicted in the Nagoya and Hamamatsu areas by enemy incendiary bombs," an unusual concession from imperial headquarters.

The enemy claim followed an earlier war department announcement from Washington that B-29's of the 1st bomber command had struck again at Honshu, main island of Japan.

Honshu is the principal island of the Japanese archipelago. It is the site of such vital manufacturing, shipping and administrative centers as Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, Kobe and Osaka. The monster bombers spanned a round-trip of more than 3,000 miles to hit the Nipponese homeland from bases in the Mariana Islands.

CANADIANS MAKE GAIN ALONG ITALIAN FRONT

By The Associated Press. ROME, Jan. 3.—Canadian troops battling toward Alfonsine on the Ravenna-Ferrara highway have gained considerable ground between the Fosso Cecilio and the Senio river despite stiff enemy resistance. Allied headquarters announced today.

The Canadian thrust apparently caught the German forces by surprise. A number of enemy strongholds were cleaned up. Seventy prisoners were taken.

Further south, a German pocket east of the Senio is being mopped up, although this "still must be regarded as a substantial enemy bridgehead over the river," an official announcement said.

In the west coast sector, Fifth army patrols pushed out along Route 1 toward Massa, the strongest German position in the Tyrrhenian area and made contact with the enemy at several points after inching through dense mine fields.

GILLETTE NOMINATED FOR PROPERTY BOARD

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Gay M. Gillette, whose term as a senator from Iowa ended today, was nominated by President Roosevelt to be the third member of the surplus property board.

Robert Hurley and Lt. Col. Edward Heller have been confirmed by the senate. Mr. Gillette's nomination could not be presented in the last congress under a law forbidding appointment of a legislator to any agency created during his term.

Mr. Roosevelt also sent to the senate again the nomination of Paul Porter to be a member of the federal communications commission.

FORMOSA REGION HIT BY BOMBERS

Five Japanese Ships Fired, Four Planes Shot Down

By The Associated Press. GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Jan. 3.—A smashing New Year's day bombing of Manila's Clark field by Leyte-based Liberators was reported from a Fifth air force advance base as Gen. Douglas MacArthur stepped up air assaults brought Formosa into his communique to-day for the first time.

Fighter-escorted Liberators of the veteran Red Raiders group flew through intense anti-aircraft fire to spill their bombs on the busiest airfield in the Philippines. All bombers returned.

The fighters tangled with Japanese interceptors in numerous dog-fights and at least two enemy aircraft were seen to go down.

The raid was an extension of strong land-based assaults on Luzon, reaching targets as far as 150 miles north of Manila, the far east day.

Gen. MacArthur said today that patrol planes approached Formosa, the enemy's island bastion 225 miles north of the Philippines, Sunday, setting five coastal ships afire and shooting down four planes.

It was the first strike by south-west Pacific planes so far north. Formosa was bombed in October by Pacific fleet carrier planes and Asia-based super-fortresses.

Formosa is Japan's great staging base for her Philippine forces. American bombers in Sunday raids poured 135 tons of bombs on Halmahera, between New Guinea and the Philippines. Halmahera's airfields, supply areas and anti-aircraft positions were hammered.

Fighter planes sweeping over southern Luzon caused widespread damage to warehouses, rail facilities, power plants and wharves. Medium bombers, operating farther north, sank a 2,000-ton merchant ship off the Luzon coast and caused fires and explosions at Laoag. A gunboat was sunk.

Mopping up proceeded on Leyte island as the Americans killed 778 more Japanese. Enemy dead or captured on the island has reached 119,742.

Coal Shortage Grows Acute; Transportation Tieup Blamed

One of the worst fuel shortages in years was evident today in East Liverpool district, and coal dealers said the situation is growing more acute.

A survey of the yards showed up transportation—truck, train and dundie to mere "cellar-size" piles in some bins, while others with larger supplies lack the trucks to deliver it.

Householders in the extremity have started using their cars to haul fuel, taking loads from a gunny-sack-full to 19 bushels in bags and baskets, in one incident related by a dealer.

"They piled that load right into a good car," he recounted. "They certainly must have needed coal."

Virtually all coal offices reported phones ringing incessantly with pleas for "just 25 or 50 bushels," but there is little that dealers can do.

One yard reported a "steady parade" of people after coal, with some carrying it away in buckets to tide them over for a day or less.

The situation began the week of the "big storm" Dec. 12, when slippery roads prevented trucks

Cold Wave Wanes But It's Due Back Tonight With Snow Flurries

The severe cold relaxed its icy grip on the East Liverpool district today—but the weatherman hastened to warn that it's due to stage some sort of a comeback.

He predicted much colder to-night—along with snow flurries!

Temperatures virtually skyrocketed from the sub-zero readings of Tuesday, with 27 above reported from Dan 8, and 19 at the U. S. weather station at Swaney airport.

The overnight snow melted down to a trace of precipitation. Attendees at Dan 8 said the cold wave checked a rise in the river, however, stopping the water at 23.9 feet—far below the 32-foot flood stage for the East Liverpool area. The river was at 20.6 today at noon and falling.

$10,000 FIRE RAZES BIG HILLCREST HOME

Wellsville Firemen Able To Save Adjacent Buildings

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Viola in Hillcrest, two miles north of Wellsville, was destroyed by fire Tuesday noon, causing a loss estimated at about $10,000.

Wellsville firemen were called but were unable to check the blaze, which had gained considerable headway before they arrived. The loss was covered partially by insurance. The home was a 11-room two-story frame.

Mrs. Viola was the only member of the family at home when the fire was discovered about 11:15 a. m. She had gone to the barn to look after the stock and about 15 minutes later she started back to the house, then noticed that smoke was coming from the windows.

Unable to enter the house, she ran to a neighbor's across the road to notify the fire department. Firemen fought the flames with water from a nearby well and kept the blaze from spreading to nearby buildings.

Mr. Viola has a cobbler's shop on Main st. near 15th st. Two other daughters were at work and a third child was in school at the time.

79TH CONGRESS STARTS SESSION

Most Business Held Up Until Roosevelt's Message

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The 79th congress came to life officially today, grimly agreed the war is far from won but divided over ways to reinforce the home front.

The thump of the gavel in both houses cleared the deck for swearing-in ceremonies.

Most business will be postponed until after President Roosevelt's fourth wartime message on the state of the union is read in a joint session Saturday.

Controversy already has developed around proposals for universal service legislation.

The President gave a sort of approval to work-or-fight legislation at Tuesday's news conference.

When a reporter asked if he was for that kind of a law, Mr. Roosevelt said he thought so. He added it is up to congress to write the ticket.

The President said he is in substantial accord with the recommendations of War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes. These include an appeal for broadened government control over men rejected by the army as physically unfit.

This found some support in congress, mixed with strong dissent. There was argument over a Byrnes suggestion that the war labor board be given authority to enforce its orders without resorting to government seizure of plants. His proposals for enactment of post-war tax changes got a cool reception in some quarters.

The house military committee will meet Friday to decide what to do about Mr. Byrnes' idea that the 4-F's should be subject to assignment to war plant jobs. Members will consider whether to hold hearings on universal service legislation that would give the government the right to force men and women to take war jobs.

Sen. George (D) of Georgia said the 4-F's could be handled under existing law.

Sen. Vandenberg (R) of Michigan, chairman of the Republican conference, said if the President asked for work-or-fight legislation he probably would get it.

Sen. Taft (R) of Ohio doubts that much increase in war plant employment would result. The government often has a way, he said, of putting a plumber at a desk and a clerk on a plumbing assignment.

LISBON YOUTH LISTED AS MISSING IN ACTION

Special To The Review. LISBON, Jan. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Atterholt of the Lisbon-Lee-tonia road received a telegram Tuesday night from the war department, advising them that their son, First Lt. Charles S. Atterholt, has been missing in action since a flight over Germany on Dec. 17.

The youth was a flight officer attached to the 15th air force in Italy. He had been overseas for about a year. He was commissioned about three years ago.

Lt. Atterholt's wife is the former Arline Brinker, a county health nurse before her marriage and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brinker of East Lincoln way.

MEN DEFERRED BY FARM WORK FACE INDUCTION

Byrnes, Acting With Support Of Roosevelt, Sets Draft Of 18 Through 25

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The White House today directed selective service to press "to the full extent permitted by law" the drafting of deferred farm workers in the 18 through 25 age class.

Acting with President Roosevelt's authorization, War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes called on Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey to draw as much as possible on this largest remaining reservoir of potential fighting men.

Mr. Byrnes said 364,000 men in this age range hold agricultural deferments.

"The army and navy believe it essential to the effective prosecution of the war," Mr. Byrnes said, "to induce more men in this age group."

Bank On Older Men

"The President feels in view of existing conditions," Mr. Byrnes told Gen. Hershey, "agriculture like our other war industries can, with few exceptions, be carried on by those in the older age groups."

Mr. Byrnes noted that Gen. Hershey had told him that if men were not available from the farms he would have to call up deferred men in the next higher age group, most of whom are fathers.

Mr. Byrnes acted in the wake of reports that War Food Administrator Marvin Jones is opposed to any move to draft farm workers.

He made his request to Gen. Hershey, the selective service director, in a letter proposing that he go as far as possible to draft the young men in the light of the Tydings amendment aimed at exempting bona fide farm workers from military service.

The Tydings amendment directed draft boards to exempt essential agricultural workers, but left to local boards the determination of standards for deferment. In the past, selective service has made the advisory standards for deferment. Local boards were free to act on their own judgment.

Unit Standard Set Up

Under the selective service system's advisory plan, a farm work unit standard was set up. A unit designated a specific quantity of farm work.

Originally, the system recommended that all farm workers doing 16 units of work a year be deferred. Later selective service recommended that more work be required. This recommendation brought sharp protest from farm organizations and farm state congressmen, and consequently was dropped.

Whether there was any connection between Mr. Byrnes' request to Gen. Hershey and a White House appointment today for Mr. Jones was not disclosed immediately.

In his first report to the President and congress as director of war mobilization and reconversion, Mr. Byrnes declared Tuesday "the possibility of increased calls under

TITO DUE TO BECOME YUGOSLAVS' PREMIER

King Peter Appears Ready To Agree On New Rule

By The Associated Press. LONDON, Jan. 3.—Yugoslavia's King Peter is expected within the next 48 hours to agree to formation of a new government headed by Marshal Tito as premier, with Dr. Ivan Subasic stepping down from that position, but retaining the foreign ministry.

King Peter also may agree to establishment of a regency, less than a week after George II of Greece made a similar decision.

King Peter apparently has no choice but to remain in exile until a plebiscite is held, accepting a three-man regency submitted to him for his approval, even though this would be tantamount to relinquishing his throne.

Marshal Tito and Dr. Subasic agreed on the regency and formation of a federal democratic government several months ago.

Since his marriage last March to Princess Alexandra of Greece, which caused a rupture in relations between King Peter and his mother, Queen Marie, the young monarch has kept out of political activity.

FIERCE FIGHTING ROCKS BUDAPEST

Russians Hammer Ahead In House-to-House Duels

By DANIEL DE LUCE Associated Press Staff Writer. MOSCOW, Jan. 3.—Russian storm forces are smashing their way through bloody Budapest today in probably the fiercest house-to-house fighting since Stalingrad.

Making progress in what an official announcement called "fierce encounters in fortified houses, in courtyards and in cellars," Red army troops Tuesday captured 232 blocks in Pest, the part of the city east of the Danube, and 53 blocks in Buda on the opposite bank.

It is believed in Moscow the enemy garrison already has lost 10,000 dead and possibly 30,000 wounded.

Although the Red army has not officially estimated the strength of the trapped garrison, Col. Gen. Janos Voros, minister of defense of the provisional Hungarian government recently set up in Russian-held territory, said Tuesday night that the total may run as high as 75,000 to 100,000 Germans, plus 30,000 Hungarians.

The Russians now hold nearly 1,000 blocks of the battered city. How 2,000,000 civilians estimated to be cowering inside the city are surviving only could be imagined.

It appears likely the Russian armies will not resume offensive operations in great force in the direction of the Austrian frontier until Budapest largely is overwhelmed.

Forty-two miles northwest of Budapest and 10 miles southeast of the Danube communications center of Komarom, fresh German armored forces drawn from Austria lashed out Tuesday at the tip of

Nazi Withdrawals Indicated In Fight For Belgian Bulge

Germans Claim Eight U. S. Divisions Have Been Hurled Into Bastogne Sector; Enemy Gains Two Miles In One Area During Fanatical Warfare

BULLETIN
PARIS, Jan. 3.—The American armored onslaught smashed 8 1/2 miles northeast of Bastogne today up the diagonal railway toward St. Vith, beating into the outskirts of Michamps and into the Maister woods through stubborn German resistance.

By The Associated Press. U. S. Third and Seventh army troops slowed or halted German jabs in nearly a dozen places today against their positions from Saarbrücken to the Rhine, while in the Belgian bulge Third army forces speared to positions four miles northeast of Bastogne, amid growing indications of Nazi withdrawals.

The German high command declared that eight U. S. divisions have been hurled into an effort to ring Nazi positions in the Bastogne sector, suggesting that some 110,000 Americans are assaulting that sector alone. The Germans said that since their offensive started Dec. 16, American casualties exceeded 50,000.

The Germans have gained up to two miles in one area against Third and Seventh army positions in the south in fanatical fighting. While the fighting in the Belgian salient approached something like a stalemate, Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's doughboys in the south fell back at first before the German drive, braced late yesterday, and then halted the advance in the lower Vooges southeast of Bitch, Maginot line strong point.

Headquarters said the Germans crossed the Biles river. The area was not specified, but presumably the communique referred to the region east of Sarreguemines. The bulletin said the tank-backed drive southeast of Bitch forced U. S. units to give ground, "but all thrusts either were slowed down or halted."

Marked By Surprising Lack Of Artillery
The German attacks, however, were marked by a surprising lack of artillery and nowhere achieved anything like the proportions of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's pre-Christmas smash in the north.

A front dispatch said the attacks were not classified either as a major offensive or a limited push. If they were the latter, it may be presumed that this is a diversion to relieve Belgian pressure.

Supreme headquarters lifted the 36-hour news embargo on the Belgian salient and disclosed that the perimeter of the Nazi bulge has been comparatively stabilized.

Third army units advanced to a point four miles northeast of Bastogne in the southern flank. There were signs of German movement eastward as Allied air forces poised for a trap should the enemy attempt large-scale withdrawals. Cold weather has curtailed tactical air support on both sides.

The Third army has captured 7,825 prisoners since Dec. 22, when it launched its counter-thrust against the German offensive.

Gen. Patton's troops swarmed forward in gains averaging at least a mile along the whole front from west of Bastogne to St. Vith. They broadened their striking positions on both sides of Bastogne and advanced a mile and a half more to the northeast.

By last night, the thrust to the northeast through bitter German opposition had reached Arloncourt, less than a mile from Michamps, five miles northeast of Bastogne.

Nazis Resist Fiercely
A Third army dispatch filed at 11:15 a. m. today, however, said "fierce German resistance on both sides of the Bastogne salient had brought an overnight halt to the advance into the neck of the bulge."

German defenses came principally from small arms and anti-tank gunfire. Along this whole sector there were reports over the last 24 hours of steady troop movements to the east and northeast. This would be toward St. Vith, the road junction at the base of the wedge which Allied fighter bombers have kept under constant attack.

Official reports from north of the salient said that flank was quiet last night.

From Bastogne, the Americans by last night fought their way two more miles due east through the village of Magaret and on toward Longvilly.

ENEMY SUPPLIES BATTERED AGAIN

Yank Bombers Stage 12th Straight Daylight Raid

By The Associated Press. LONDON, Jan. 3.—Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle's all-weather heavy bombers today attacked masses of German war material moving to the front. It was the Americans' 12th daylight raid in as many days.

The Berlin radio said the formations were over western Germany, Nurnberg, Ludwigschafen and Berlin were attacked by RAF squadrons Tuesday night.

British and American forces teamed Tuesday in two 1,000-bombing blows—one by day and the other by night. Their targets were all-way yards congested with freight, key highway intersections and tank and troop concentrations concealed in woods.

Fighters and bombers operating from France, Belgium and Holland smashed the Nazis with day-long

AMERICANS LINED UP, SLAIN BY SS OFFICER

St. Vith Veterans Describe Murder Of Eight Men

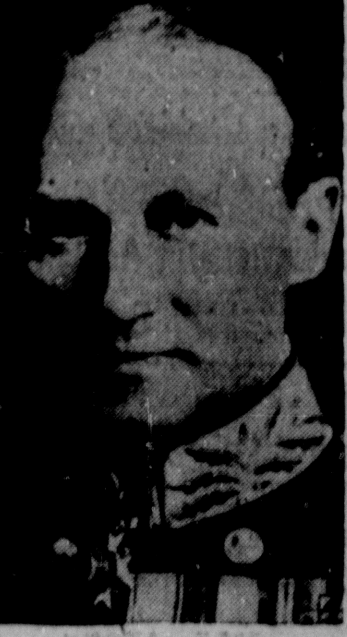

By The Associated Press. WITH AMERICAN ARMIES IN BELGIUM, Jan. 2.—(Delayed)—Veterans of the Battle of St. Vith declared today eight men of a captured supply train were shot to death by an SS officer.

Nine men were manning the supply train, caught by a German armored column after bulkhead tanks had knocked out five of the enemy tanks. The veterans said the nine prisoners were lined up in a field and an SS officer shot alternate men in the back of the head with a revolver.

When he started down the line a second time one of the men made a break for it. He was hit in the neck as he was clearing a fence. He played dead for nearly three hours and finally made his way back to his outfit. The remainder were killed.

Other aspects of the battle for St. Vith are becoming known.

Maj. Ben Cochran, whose family lives in Rome, Ga., and Maj. Frank M. Norfleet of Kimbrough Towers, Memphis, Tenn., related how their armored combat command virtually alone fought off elements of three German divisions for 36 hours until supported by the Seventh armored division.

SIR BERTRAM RAMSAY He was hero of Dunkerque.

Naval Chief Dies In Air Crash; Cunningham May Be Chosen

By The Associated Press. LONDON, Jan. 3.—London naval men speculated today that Adm. Sir John Cunningham, commander-in-chief of the Allied Mediterranean fleet, may be named supreme naval commander for western Europe, succeeding Adm. Sir Bertram Ramsay, killed in an air-plane crash.

Sir Bertram, 61, hero of Dunkerque, who planned the naval phases of the western front under Gen. Eisenhower, was en route to a conference in Belgium when his plane crashed Tuesday.

An announcement from supreme headquarters said that the admiral, whose aggressiveness won him the nickname "Dynamo," which was the code name of the Dunkerque operation—met with an "accident" while en route to a conference. His plane was not shot down by the Germans, but probably ran into bad weather.

Adm. Ramsay was a planner and commander of every important combined naval-army operation of the Allies and was naval command-

NAZI FLIERS USE 'BALLS OF FIRE'

Flames Race Along German Warplanes For Miles

By The Associated Press.
A U. S. NIGHT FIGHTER BASE, France, Jan. 3—American fighter pilots engaged in flying night intruder missions over Germany report the Nazis have come up with a new "secret weapon"—mysterious "balls of fire" which race along beside their planes for miles.

Yank pilots have dubbed them "Foo Fighters". So far there is no indication that any planes have been damaged by them.

Some pilots have expressed belief the "Foo Fighter" is strictly a psychological weapon. Intelligence reports seem to indicate it is radio-controlled from the ground and can keep pace with planes flying 300 miles an hour.

Lt. Donald Meiers of Chicago said there are three types of "Foo Fighters"—red balls of fire that fly along at wing tip; a vertical row of three balls of fire which fly in front of the planes, and a group of about 15 lights which follow the plane at a distance, flickering on and off.

(Floating and plane-following balls in fire-like color, added to the silver globes encountered over the German lines by American airmen, might not be as mysterious as would seem in cable dispatches. C. E. Butterfield, A.P. radio editor, says.

(This is just a guess, but on the little information available, the colored and glowing globes well might be added elements in attempts to interfere with radio signals and radar detection.

(While dispatches hint that they are radio controlled, the fact that they travel along with a plane or stay a certain distance ahead would tend toward the belief that they instead are magnetic.)

FARMER CENSUS TO START JAN. 8 FIREMAN'S EXAM PLANNED JAN. 18

Number Of Questions To Be Asked Of Each Operator Department Has Vacancy; Applications Available

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 — The nation's 6,000,000 farm operators can get their answers ready.

The census bureau said today its 1945 census of agriculture will start Jan. 8.

Every farm operator will be asked about his production in the 1944 crop year and his inventory as of Jan. 1, 1945.

He will be asked the location of the farm acreage, how many live on it, how many houses they live in and what facilities the houses have, and the value of the lands, buildings and machinery, and the amount of mortgage debt.

Operators will be requested to give the number of workers, paid and unpaid; amount of work done by the operator and his family; total cash outlay for labor throughout the year, and the number of days on which the farm operator may have worked off the farm for pay or profit.

Other operators, on a sample basis, will be questioned on other subjects, such as fertilizer and feed purchases, livestock, amount of timber cut and motor vehicles.

Census provided for preparation and field work, but it refused in December to appropriate $5,500,000 more to complete the project.

Commerce department officials said the new census will be asked for this money shortly after it convenes.

BIDS DUE JAN. 12 ON CITY SEWERS

2 Systems To Be Installed When Weather Allows

The city will open bids Jan. 12 on installation of sanitary and storm sewers on Dresden ave. from East Eighth st. to Grant st., although the project probably will be deferred until weather permits this spring.

The offers will cover supplies, material and labor for the two lines, which will be laid in the same excavation—an 8-inch sanitary line and a 36-inch storm sewer.

The project originally was scheduled tentatively for last fall, but was held up when the possibility arose that the state highway department might resurface Dresden ave. from the Diamond to the city limits.

The paving project fell through, however, when the state received no bids on the job, but in the meantime cold weather had precluded the sewer job.

Meanwhile, the city engineer's office is completing plans for paving Jennings ave., another project that is scheduled to get under way in the spring. The cost of the job, on which council has passed enabling legislation, is estimated at approximately $9,691, or $232 a front foot.

The job would cost property holders about $5,203 through assessments, with the city chipping in $1,458, the engineer's office has estimated.

STEEL PRICE CLAIMS SEEN AS RECOGNIZED

By The Associated Press.
YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 3—Recent statements in Washington recognize the position of the industry in asking increased steel prices. Walter E. Watson of Youngstown, chairman of the general steel products advisory committee said Tuesday.

Mr. Watson's statement follows: "The statement of OPA and the director of economic stabilization, Fred Vinson, that 'for some time increases in the prices of certain steel products have been required by law' is clear recognition of the position taken by our committee.

"With that question now settled the industry is keenly interested in having the respective amounts of the price increases determined and made effective as soon as possible. We are working with OPA continuously to find the proper answer to the price question raised by past cost increases. We also are asking OPA to help find a solution for the effects of the new wage increases approved Dec. 30 on a retroactive basis, by Mr. Vinson.

"At present I cannot understand the statement of OPA that after the price adjustments required by past cost increases are made 'the proposed wage increases will not require any further net rise in the general level of iron and steel prices.'"

Widows And Orphans Of World War I Vets Entitled To Pensions

Widows and orphans of veterans of World War I are entitled to federal pensions under a law which became effective Dec. 14, 1944, C. R. Stephens of East Liverpool, president of the Columbiana county soldiers' and sailors' relief commission, explained today.

The amount of the pension depends upon the number of children dependents left by the deceased veteran, but in no case is more than $75 being paid to any one family in Columbiana county. For the widow alone the payment is $35, for the first child $10, and for each additional child $6 a month.

According to the terms of the law, the pension may be obtained by the widow, child or children of men who served for 90 days or more in the World War I prior to Nov. 12, 1918. The applicant must list the amount of her income during the past 12 months, the amount of income anticipated in the next 12 months and furnish certified copies of birth records of children and a certified copy of the marriage to the veteran.

A widow without dependents cannot have an income in excess of $1,000 a year or with dependents $2,500 a year to be entitled to the pension.

Widows or orphans entitled to this pension are instructed to make application to the soldiers' and sailors' relief office in the courthouse at Lisbon.

Members of the commission, in addition to Mr. Stephens, are R. L. Hutcheson of Salem, vice president; Wallace E. King of Lisbon, secretary, and C. D. McCullough of East Liverpool, investigator.

COUNCIL ENACTS $82,403 FUND TO CARRY 3 MONTHS

Settlement Is Indicated For Sewer Dispute; Conduct Of Meetings Discussed

City council gave unanimous approval Monday night to a temporary, three-month appropriation ordinance providing $82,403 for operation of city government pending the finance committee's completion of work on a measure covering expenditures for the entire year.

The ordinance, effective through March, sets aside sums ranging from the $300 for civilian defense to $21,345 for the waterworks department. John E. Shingler, chairman of the finance committee, said work has begun on drawing up the appropriation for the entire year, although it may not be ready for presentation on the council floor until February.

Revenue Undetermined
Requests for wage increases have come from several classes of city employees, he added. Although the anticipated revenue for the year has not been determined, Mr. Shingler said he expects the appropriation will call for several thousand dollars more than the 1944 bill, which provided approximately $600,000 for the city's operation.

In a brief but busy session, councilmen also:

with Atty. Harry Brokaw on a four-year controversy over an open sewer — thereby forestalling contempt of court actions against themselves and other city officials.

SCHEDULED a meeting next Tuesday at 7 p. m. in the Calvary Methodist church with the East Liverpool Ministerial association to discuss juvenile delinquency and other conditions.

REFERRED to the administration a suggestion that city water service be made available to several Pleasant Heights homes.

ENGAGED in a short debate on conduct of meetings — with emphasis on members "speaking out of turn."

Customarily Adopted
The temporary appropriations were approved at the first meeting of the new year, as has been customary. The sum set aside last night is not indicative of expenditures for the entire year, which would amount to only $329,612 on that basis.

The bill sets aside these sums for the various departments:
Council, $603; council clerk, $180; mayor, $150; auditor, $600; auditor's clerk, $150 and incidentals, $100; treasurer, $150; solicitor and clerk, $325; municipal judge, $450; court stenographer, $420, bailiff, $570, and clerk $375.

Safety fund, for fire, police, dog catcher and administration, $18,745; health fund, $1,665; service fund for engineering, public parks and street lighting, $6,600; waterworks fund, $21,345; direct relief, $5,000; garbage removal and disposal, $6,500; civilian defense, $300, and street maintenance and repair, $17,000.

After conferring with Atty. Brokaw in a caucus session, council gave approval to a resolution earmarking funds sufficient to correct the sewer condition on which the civil action was filed, stipu-lating the work will be completed before June 1.

Mr. Brokaw had obtained an injunction last February making officials responsible for assuring that no sewage excepting storm water would flow in a ditch in front of his property on Princeton st. between Smithfield and Allison sts.

Cited For Contempt
He followed up a few weeks ago with a motion asking that officials be held in contempt of court for not correcting the condition and Judge Joel H. Sharp of Common pleas court at Lisbon gave the city until Friday to show cause why its council and other officials should not be held in contempt.

The meeting with members of the ministerial association was scheduled on the motion of W. Kelsey Johnson, Fourth ward councilman, who said the invitation was extended by ministers through him to council. He indicated the meeting probably will cover juvenile delinquency "and other matters pertaining to the city."

Several weeks ago Mr. Johnson suggested an ordinance that would prohibit parents from taking their children into taverns, but no further action has been taken. A letter was read at last night's session from the Philathea class of the First United Presbyterian church, commending council on its interest in curbing juvenile delinquency.

Mr. Johnson also suggested extension of city water service to about seven families on Dakota ave., Pleasant Heights. Council referred the question to the waterworks department and also asked City Engineer Robert S. Wheatley to determine the cost. About 350 feet of new main would be required, Mr. Johnson estimated.

Now Depend On Springs
He said the residents get water now from springs and wells "the best way they can," adding, "if it's possible I would like to see if something can be done to give them city water." Included is an elderly woman, mother of four sons in the service, who takes in laundry for living and has difficulty getting water, he said.

The only debate on conduct of the meetings was touched off when Councilman Paul V. Baxter of the Second ward took the floor near the end of the session.

"I would like to call attention to the fact that our meetings are not conducted according to the rules, although I believe it is as much the fault of the members as the president," he declared. "For instance, when we are supposed to be hearing reports of standing committees, members bring up subjects that should be discussed as miscellaneous matters and are not committee reports at all," he said.

"And when we were supposed to be hearing reports of city offices and boards tonight, several members took the floor," he continued. "There's a time and place for everything, and I would like to see our meetings conducted that way."

Promises Control
Replying, President Homer T. Amos assured Mr. Baxter that in the future: "I'll take care of people who jump up out of order." He backed on a strong warning that future meetings will start promptly at 7:30, adding there is a possibility members not present may not be excused. He pointed out two members were not present for the early part of the caucus session. (Edgar H. Heddleston and Bert Goodballet arrived late for the caucus.)

Mr. Goodballet replied that he missed part of the caucus because, "I was out trying to get some coal for my home." He asserted he appeared on time for the public meeting and added, "the members of council, not the president, decide who will be excused."

Mr. Shingler spoke last, declaring that members "who want to know what's going on should attend caucus meetings" that preceded the public meeting. Some members are inattentive, leaving their places at the council table when business is being conducted, he added.

Earlier, Councilman John G. Hill suggested electric motors be installed to lift the overhead doors at the police garage, which now are raised with a manual chain hoist. It was referred to the finance committee to determine if funds are available.

Relief Cases Rise
A report from Mrs. Margaret Hickey, city relief director, showed an increase of 10 cases — representing 39 individuals — in the period from Dec. 2 to last Monday. The city now has on its rolls 112 cases, representing 234 persons, she pointed out, as contrasted with the Dec. 2 figures: 102 cases — 195 persons.

A breakdown showed 48 families, with 170 persons, and 64 singles on the rolls. Encumbrances for December were $3,213.09 in all, including $1,800.72 for families, $1,068.07 for singles and $344.30 for administration and supplies, she reported.

WEATHER OF '44 NEARLY NORMAL IN TEMPERATURE

Year Fell Below Average In Precipitation, But Ahead In Amount Of Snow

You were shivering Dec. 22 and "burning up" last July 11, but the weather was about normal for 1944, according to L. H. Copeland, U. S. observer, who said in his annual summary today the year's average temperature was hardly a degree above normal—regardless of the hot and cold extremes.

He said the high for the year was the 98 recorded on July 11, while the low was Dec. 22 when the mercury skidded to 17 below for a state record for that cold spell.

The normal temperature year-around, according to the 51-year records of the Millport station, is 48.8 degrees, while 1944 had an average of 49.5.

Normal precipitation for a year is 37 inches, and 1944 was less wet, with only 33.17 inches, for which March contributed 4.24 as the wettest month. The driest month was February, with only 1.52 inches.

August was the warmest month with an average of 71, while December was the coldest with 24.2 degrees. Temperatures for the other months were: January, 28.5; February, 29.4; March, 35.2; April, 45.7; May, 65.6; June 69.7; July, 70.9; September, 62.1; October, 50.7, and November, 40.6.

The year was ahead in snow and December tried to add to the increase with 17 inches last month, for a total of 37.5 for the year against the average of 29.7. Only last March had near as much snow, with 10.5 inches.

There were 132 rainy days, 110 clear, 151 partly cloudy, 105 totally cloudy, and there was an average of 51 percent of sunshine.

Mr. Copeland said there were the usual varieties of weather during 1944, including a retarded spring, above normal temperatures in May, June, July and August, and rainfall under par, causing a severe and extended drought.

Harbinger of autumn, the first killing frost came on Sept. 24, and in due time fall arrived to be succeeded by winter that started out with the usual trappings of cold and snow.

December's snow was above normal, which is 5.8 inches, and the month also had 26 percent sunshine. There was 2.8 inches of precipitation last month, with 14 days in which there was a measurable precipitation.

The farmer, of course, depends on the weather, and Mr. Copeland said the food producer suffered with short crops of corn, oats and potatoes, mainly from last summer's drought.

6 TRUSTEES ELECTED FOR HOSPITAL BOARD

Six trustees were elected at the annual meeting of the East Liverpool City hospital association Tuesday night in the hospital offices.

Joseph Betz, Carroll P. Lynch, James M. Duffy, C. V. Hughes and J. E. Hedenquist were elected to the board for terms of three years, while Gordon Bendheim was named for a term of two years to fill the vacancy created by the death of Dr. C. R. Larkins, who died last year.

Joseph M. Wells was re-elected president, and Mr. Betz again was named secretary for terms of one year.

The trustees will meet Tuesday, Jan. 16, to reorganize and to receive annual reports.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

'Who Done It?'

I RECENTLY received from The Dryden Press a copy of An Intelligent—American's Guide to the Peace, a massive volume of what appears to be objective information.

On the blurb the name of Sumner Welles appears in letters one and a quarter inches high. Above that name appears, in letters one-eighth of an inch high, the legend, "Under the general editorship of". In a "publisher's note", I came across the fact that "the research and preparation of the material were entrusted to William J. Blake".

As the research and preparation of the material is the business of an author, it would seem that William J. Blake must be the author. The setup aroused the detective in me. I turned to Finland. First I discovered that in stating the economics of Finland, the authors compare that country with her neighbor Sweden, which had, before the war, one of the highest standards of living in Europe, but not with her other neighbor, Russia, which had one of the lowest. Then this follows:

"... Inevitably the common sense of the people returned, a general sentiment arose for democratizing farm holdings so that a secure social order could be built on the welfare of the masses of the people, instead of depending on the will of the determined, wealthy Swedish minority."

I don't know what "common sense" or "democratizing farm holdings" means in this volume of objective data and I could find nothing about Finland paying her debts but much about Finland's poverty.

HERE is one on Poland:

"Poland's foreign affiliations of the past, like her long alliance with France, are meaningless today. She was to live in a Europe where Germany is beaten and yet where France does not hold the military hegemony. Her past assumptions must be changed."

Now precisely what does that mean—particularly in this factual book? The answer is given:

"... It is notable that the twin demand for democratization of land and good industrial relations with her neighbors is the limit of the program advanced by the Polish army under the Lublin committee."

The plain English of it is Poland must take what Russia insists on.

Now we come to Soviet Russia:

"... Inevitably the common sense of the people returned, a general sentiment arose for democratizing farm holdings so that a secure social order could be built on the welfare of the masses of the people, instead of depending on the will of the determined, wealthy Swedish minority."

There was great fear of Fascism in the country before our war victory became visibly probable. Fascism is a dictatorship by right-wing elements, conservatives. It was evolved by Mussolini and perfected by Hitler as the only means of combating Communism, which was a dictatorship by the left-wing elements.

They have the same methods and ideals, believing freedom to be the organization of the individual to the service of the state, contrary to the old democratic principle which holds that freedom is individual liberty.

Neither represented the yearning of any great body of the people. They were conceived at the top and imposed on the people. They were revolutions in which highly-organized minorities got control of the people, the bulk of whom are not and cannot be expected in politics.

They did not come from elections, yet they adhere to the system of elections. Both Hitler and Stalin held elections, generally winning them 100 to 1 because the people dared not vote any other way, unless they wanted to be killed or ruined. To make their living, the people had to vote the way in which the highly-organized minority at the top told them to vote.

Even so, no dictator has been able to maintain himself in office without periodic purges to murder and suppress the opposition. In any kind of a political system, opposition always will arise.

NOW no important segment of our people wants either Fascism or Communism. Yet there is a very popular movement toward the basic principle, denying the democratic concept of individual liberty as being a good thing, and interpreting freedom just as the Fascists and Communists do.

Where we seem to be heading in all this is toward a new form of a capitalist republic controlled politically and economically by the unions.

But is it possible to have that? Can you have capitalism and union control? Can you maintain democracy under union control? In economic control, it would make all capitalism work toward its ends—higher and higher wages which would force higher and higher prices with less and less profits, incentive, private capital. It could not last any more than a controlled capitalism by business could last. From the political side, unquestionably the great bulk of the people who pay the prices and the wages would not stand for it. Once you accept the basic new

"All religions are tolerated in the U.S.S.R. State printing facilities are now available to religious bodies and the Protestant faith has even made spectacular gains throughout the Bolshevik regime. Nevertheless, among the youth, religion is not widespread, for most of them accept the Marx-Lenin philosophical view, which precludes religion."

How does Mr. Blake reach the conclusion that all religions are tolerated in Russia? What religious schools, seminaries, yeshivas exist in that country?

What may any religious group do to educate its young? Are Roman Catholic bishops permitted to function ecclesiastically? If the government printing presses alone may print religious literature, is it not true that the government exercises a censorship over that literature? This objective mine of information says nothing about that.

MR. BLAKE says: "Moreover, it is likely that she also will require the assurance that 'friendly' governments will be installed in all of the adjacent European countries."

I noted that when the British tried to do just that in Italy, Greece and Belgium, there was a violent outcry against Winston Churchill. Apparently there is only enough sense of this fixing for the goose. Then he adds:

"The Soviet Union is implacably hostile to Japanese militarist adventures in Asia, but the specific form of that resentment is not as yet definite." How about that implacable hostility translating itself into action?

I must say that I approached this book with considerable prejudice because of the funny business about the author. That prejudice notwithstanding, it is an extremely valuable reference book.

Very annoyed with the one-sided account of the depression of the United States, I have to admit that I am expecting too much when I ask for an objective statement of that situation. So as long as there is nothing better available—and there is nothing better available—this is the book for an intelligent American.

And if the publisher was afraid that I would shout, "Marxist!" if he admitted that Mr. Blake wrote the book, he might get over that inhibition and give the devil his due.

Value Of Opposition

By Paul Mallon

WASHINGTON—I mentioned yesterday's column that nearly two-thirds of the servicemen didn't vote for either Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Dewey, and contrasted this fact with the highly-organized political action of the Congress of Industrial Organizations and its new theory of freedom as being organized control of the individual through unions and federalized power. I am trying to bring into the light for plain discussion the apprehensions evident here as to where this country is going, domestically and internationally.

There was great fear of Fascism in the country before our war victory became visibly probable. Fascism is a dictatorship by right-wing elements, conservatives. It was evolved by Mussolini and perfected by Hitler as the only means of combating Communism, which was a dictatorship by the left-wing elements.

You'd Help More—

We Must Recognize Problems

By Walter Lippmann

OF one thing we may be sure, that we shall not get anywhere by acting as if we knew the answer to the troublesome problems of liberated Europe but that Mr. Churchill and Marshal Stalin, bent on "power politics" and "spheres of influence" are ignoring our advice.

The plain fact of the matter is that we—both the people and the government—have no solution for these problems, and what is more we thus far have refused to recognize the existence of the problems which have to be solved.

There are the problems of who is to govern, and how, in countries which have just been liberated from Nazi occupation.

Mr. Roosevelt was baffled by this problem in French North Africa. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill have been baffled by it in Italy, in Belgium and in Greece. Along with Marshal Stalin they have been baffled by it in Yugoslavia and in Poland.

The cornerstone of our policy in this field is the third declaration of the Atlantic Charter, which says that "they respect the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live."

This sovereign principle provides no solution for the problem which actually has confronted the Allies in every country which thus far has been liberated.

For the problem has been to decide what government to recognize and to support and to work with in the period of time before the occupied of time before the occupied and liberated peoples can exercise their right to elect representatives and to choose their form of government.

To guarantee that they will be able eventually to exercise their sovereign right is essential. But before they can exercise it there has to be a government for each of these countries.

There has to be a government with which we can make plans for the coordination of our armies with the underground resistance; a government which can administer the newly-liberated territory behind our armies which can mobilize the economic resources and the manpower of the liberated country in order to fight this war; which can distribute the relief we are able to import; which can speak for the nation in the settlement we propose to make with the enemy and therefore will participate in the settlement; which can represent the national interest in our councils so that we shall not be accused, later on, of having ignored their interests.

NOW the third principle of the Atlantic Charter tells us absolutely nothing about how to recognize a provisional government which has not been elected by the people because it has not been possible to hold elections.

The principle of the Atlantic Charter is perfectly valid; but for this problem, which confronts us everywhere, it is perfectly irrelevant.

That is why all Europeans who are confronted with the problem are dismayed when the state department lectures them about the right of all peoples to choose their own government.

They feel like a man who has broken his leg and is told that a healthy man must stand on his own feet.

The makers of our foreign policy in the state department have overlooked and, therefore, have had no policy regarding the problem of government in the interval between liberation and the holding of elections and the convocation of constituent assemblies.

They have had strong and sound views on the principle which ought to prevail in the permanent and legitimate government of each country in the future.

But they have had no views, no theory and no principle about the de facto and the provisional governments which are indispensable immediately.

There has been a hiatus, a blank space, in their thinking and their planning and their policy making. That is why they have vacillated and improvised, blown hot and cold and been without clear views, on Darlan, Giraud, De Gaulle, on Tito and Mikhailovich, on the London Poles and the Lublin Poles and on the Greek king.

Even if we cannot be wise, we can at least be tolerant and charitable and helpful by admitting that the right course to take in recognizing and supporting provisional governments is an exceedingly difficult and even dangerous matter to decide.

There are no precedents, there is no body of tested political knowledge, which we or anyone else readily can draw on in the situation which we face.

Virtually the whole of continental Europe is, as a result of the Nazi conquest, corruption and destruction, without governments which have a clear legal title and unchallenged acceptance and authority among the people they seek to govern.

As a result, government has to be reconstructed and not merely the bridges that have been blown up.

Indeed, government has to be reconstructed before hunger and disease can be dealt with successfully or any work of relief, rehabilitation and settlement carried out.

Our own history after the Revolutionary war and after the Civil War should teach us that the reconstruction of government is as necessary as it is difficult.

To invoke the third principle of the Atlantic Charter is not only no clue to a solution of the real problem. It easily can become, if invoked where it does not apply, an obstacle to a solution.

For it is a standing invitation to all the peoples to refrain from uniting behind any provisional government.

What we tell them is to fix their minds on winning the election which eventually is going to be held; for the winner of that election is going to have American support, whereas the provisional government which now exists do not, as a matter of principle, think much of it.

What we need is to recognize that the problem of the provisional governments is one to which neither the Atlantic Charter nor shibboleths about power politics afford any solution.

Having recognized the gravity and difficulty of the problem, the most practical thing that Mr. Churchill, Marshal Stalin and Mr. Roosevelt could do would be to seek advice. They have not been able to solve the problem separately or in combination.

They need help, and where are they more likely to get it than from Gen. De Gaulle, the one European statesman who knows the problem best because he deals with it every day.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Pledge For Home Fronters

I SOLEMNLY promise during all of 1945 to adopt and adhere to the following resolutions:

1.—To face the facts, take my pills without sugar-coating, do my own thinking and realize that winning the war is not just a job for some other fellow.

2.—To quit dreaming, waltzing in the dark, demanding rainbows between meals and acting as if my country, caught in two wars at once, simply was doing an acrobatic act.

3.—To strike a daily balance with myself in a determination to find out how I really stand in the war effort and to make sure my conclusions are not due to my having been a pushover for fairy tales, bedtime stories, a Polyanna complex and "something George told me".

4.—To read the casualty lists and reverently carefully every day; to do so with a bowed head and a deep sense of my own insufficiency. (And to read them before, not after the sports and amusement pages.)

5.—To develop a loathing for anything contributing in any way to the countless rackets of rats who pay no attention to the government's appeals, orders, suggestions and regulations.

6.—To realize that the men of Bunker Hill didn't regard sirloin steaks as a major objective.

7.—To understand that Paul Revere made his midnight ride without any stops for sugar or butter.

8.—To know that the Minute Men of Concord and Lexington and those behind them never would have been disturbed by a cigaret shortage.

9.—To realize that the colonial fathers, the blazers of the trail and the builders of America didn't suffer from a decline in their morale if their entertainment life had to be curbed somewhat.

10.—To understand that our fighting men of today all over the globe are suffering, bleeding and dying with less complaint than I often make if the parlor radiator doesn't work.

11.—To take a daily look at myself in the mirror of my conscience and make sure I do not resemble a playboy, a dandy, a main chance guy, a chisler and a washout.

12.—To shrink from any theory that a man is doing his bit to win the global war if he stands at the burlesque show while the national anthem is played.

13.—To keep my chin up and be satisfied with one chin.

14.—To keep faith with those in foxhole, jungle swamp, mountain pass, sea and sky.

15.—To do no armchair directing of our fighting forces and to give the horse laugh to anybody who does.

16.—To take off my hat to every church, war veteran, G. I. Joe and house with a service star.

17.—Never to put my fun, comfort, schedule or belly ahead of my country.

18.—Never to do too much second guessing; never to demand scape-goats for every setback and always to realize I am in no position to know all the facts.

19.—To try to add, when anybody sounds off on what the world will need to keep the peace, "and don't forget a little of the spiritual integrity that guided our forefathers".

TWENTY-SIX YEARS AGO—Police Chief Hugh McDermott said in a report to G. L. Brokaw, public safety director, that the "city is morally clean, with no plague spots of festering corruption concealed in back streets and alleys". The report disclosed that 2,123 arrests had been made during the year.

JOB CHANNELING PLAN TO AFFECT 900 IN 4-F HERE

Draft Board To Review Men In Lower Bracket For
'Work Or Fight'

Approximately 900 East Liverpool district draft registrants are affected by the national effort to channel men with 4-F classifications into war-vital work, the local draft board said today.

The district men, along with others throughout the nation, were warned in a week-end announcement from Washington they face the possibility of induction into the armed services for limited assignment if they are not doing their part to provide vital material for the men on the firing line.

Board To Reclassify
The East Liverpool board will start a review of all men now in the 4-F classifications who are not in essential work, with the view of forwarding for re-examination those whose defects apparently are minor, according to Harlan C. Finley, chairman.

"We will examine the records of those in 4-F who are not doing their part in the war effort to find if perhaps some of them are not army material," Mr. Finley explained.

The action apparently is not aimed at discharged servicemen, either by the war manpower commission or the local draft board. Both referred specifically to 4-Fs, while men discharged for physical reasons are classified 1-D.

Has Been Prohibited
Their reinduction, except in the case of volunteers, has been prohibited nationally.

The drastic manpower statement was issued in Washington by James P. Byrnes, director of the office of war mobilization and reconversion, who advocated that congress make it possible to induct all 4-Fs not in essential work, then assign them to "things they can do".

Predicting larger draft calls in the next few months will aggravate the manpower shortage, Mr. Byrnes said congress should decide whether this would mean putting the men in uniform as soldiers or workers in overalls in war plants.

Surprise For Rail Men

TEAGUE, Tex. — The Burlington-Rock Island railroad's streamlined train doesn't have a license to hunt deer, but nevertheless it has one to its credit. The War Today:

Yamashita May Follow Von Rundstedt Lead

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer
THE Marshal Von Rundstedt of the Philippines is built-up and bull-headed Gen. Yamashita, the Japanese commander in chief, who is showing signs of intending to emulate the Nazi leader and launch a counter-drive against Gen. MacArthur—and our newly-acquired position on strategic Mindoro island is likely to be an early objective.

The battle of the Philippines archipelago is rushing toward its crisis and the MacArthur-Nimitz partnership is crowding the Jap invaders hard. Mackenzie Gen. Yamashita has sworn to force Gen. MacArthur to surrender unconditionally and there's no doubt that the war lord means business. Gen. Yamashita isn't to be regarded lightly for he's one of the outstanding generals of our time. True, radio Tokyo recently put him in a somewhat ludicrous light by boasting naively that he's so clever he can "doze off and even snore in the midst of conversation". While we might like to gauge his capabilities by this doubtful accomplishment we should be foolish to do so.

ROBINSON HEADS COMMISSIONERS

County Board Reorganized;
Crawford In 2nd Post

Special To The Review.
LISBON, Jan. 3 — Clarence Robinson of Lisbon was chosen to head the county commissioners at their reorganization meeting Tuesday, and Kim Crawford of Middleton township was named vice chairman.

Mr. Robinson succeeds Frank Fisher, who retired Dec. 31 after serving two terms on the board. Mr. Robinson and Mr. Crawford with John Smith of St. Clair township form a solid Republican front in the office for the first time since 1930, although the Democrats accomplished the feat from 1936 to 1938.

Widow Named Clerk
Mr. Crawford, the only new face on the panel, and Mr. Robinson and Mr. Smith unanimously named Esther Sexton, widow of Lester Sexton, as their clerk. Mrs. Sexton is from Lisbon.

Doris Pidge of Sallineville will continue as assistant clerk. The commissioners were balked in their efforts to begin business immediately when it was discovered that estimated appropriations for 1945 had not been submitted nor passed on by the budget commission.

The commissioners voted to continue appropriations for the first quarter of the year, based on 1944 figures.

Budget Group To Meet
The budget commission, consisting of Frank W. Springer, prosecuting attorney, Mrs. Edith Dawson, treasurer, and Irvin J. Vorniran, auditor, are scheduled to meet within the next 30 days to entertain estimates from the various public offices and to submit a budget to the commissioners for their approval.

Other than Mr. Crawford no new faces appeared to begin the new year. John Irwin, recorder-elect, is confined to his home, convalescing from a recent operation, and the staff of former recorder, Richard O. Wilson of East Liverpool, is continuing on the job.

William Shasteen of East Palestine, deputy sheriff for the past four years, has returned to private employment in East Palestine.

The only other new office-holder is Milton C. Cope, probate judge, who takes office Feb. 9, and Vincent Judge, treasurer-elect, whose term begins with the closing of the books next September.

Russian Girls Have Date
NEW YORK — "At 6 p. m. after the war," Russian girls used to whisper to their lovers as they departed for war — hoping that they would be able to keep the rendezvous. The phrase was used as the title of a musical comedy film which went into production during the Battle of Stalingrad, in the spring of 1945. The film recently had its premiere and is immensely popular, according to the Moscow representative of Russian War Relief.

Don't forget that it was he who made that sensational drive down through the jungles of the Malay peninsula, clearing out the British and finally capturing the "impregnable" base of Singapore early in the war.

A recently appointed commander in the Philippines, Gen. Yamashita is the Mikado's right arm, for these islands are the key to victory.

The general is showing particular concern over the new American acquisition—air bases on the southern end of Mindoro, which nestles up against the main island of Luzon. These bases place our air power within less than half an hour's flight of Manila. No wonder Gen. Yamashita is getting busy.

The significance of the winning of this base on Mindoro the 15th of last month was frankly and gravely noted in Tokyo at the time. The widely-read newspaper Asahi warned the public an American victory on Mindoro would give the United States forces "full control of tomorrow's military situation".

American bombers based on Mindoro are sweeping all Luzon in force. Gen. MacArthur's intention to invade Luzon, for the final great engagement of the Philippine battle, is an open book.

As a natural corollary we see Gen. Yamashita carrying out military operations on southern Luzon—only a stone's throw from Mindoro—with the apparent design of trying to oust Gen. MacArthur's forces from the smaller island.

An attack on our Mindoro base isn't the only offensive Gen. Yamashita has in mind, but if he's going to carry out that attempt he may be expected to strike soon so as not to give the Americans further time to build up their strength.

Actually Gen. MacArthur was able to announce only three days after his invasion of Mindoro that "our hold on the southern part of the island is now secure". Naturally his position has been reinforced greatly.

The impending crisis of the battle of the Philippines will produce some of the bloodiest fighting of the bitter war in the Pacific. Adm. Nimitz, naval chief in the Pacific, is optimistic but realistic. He has made it clear that rough going is just ahead.

The admiral, just back at Pearl Harbor after inspecting forward areas in the fighting zone, told a press conference that landings on the China coast remain high on the Allied plans. He added the highly-important remark that Japanese tenacity makes it necessary to contemplate invasion of Japan itself. Success in the Philippines is the prelude to the grand finale.

Bastogne Yanks Claim They Had Nazis By Throat

By The Associated Press.
PARIS, Jan. 3—Don't tell the hard-bitten 101st "Eagle" airborne division it was rescued at Bastogne—or that it was relieved—or even that it was in a tough spot.

That is not the division's story. That is not the story of its husky deputy commander, Brig. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, and not the story of the fighting men who were with him through a week in which—the way they looked at it—they had parts of seven German divisions by the throat all around them.

Still Fit Remain
The men still fit are still there, to do the job they figure they were sent here for. To attack and help smash Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's wedge.

"We resent any implication we were rescued or needed rescue," Gen. McAuliffe declared in speaking of "Merry Christmas"—the map name of the 101st and gave to the 15 or 20 square miles of Belgium it held against everything the German army could hurl against it. The spirit of the men who held it was illustrated by the name one of them thought up while under a bomb attack in an emergency hospital. The name was "The Battered Bastards of the Bastion of Bastogne".

The man who thought it up was lying there with a compound fracture of the leg and word of it spread to the gun crews of the farthest outpost line.

'Just Our Dish'
"The whole thing was just our dish," Gen. McAuliffe declared. "We did the same thing deliberately in Normandy and Holland," he said. "That's what we are for."

He said the 101st hollered only once for medical supplies and surgical teams to treat its badly wounded after the Germans overran its main medical base east of the town the night of Dec. 19-20 in the first phase of the fight.

Those supplies and doctors to perform the more serious operations were flown in.

BETTER GARBAGE SYSTEM SOUGHT FOR WELLSVILLE

Council Appoints Committee To Study Suggestions To Improve Collections

At a meeting of Wellsville city council Tuesday night, the finance committee was delegated to map out a plan to give the community a more efficient system of garbage collection.

Acting upon the suggestion of Mayor Clarence H. Peters for such a committee, President John Call named Charles Stewart, Fred Swearingen and D. F. Reynolds to study the present unsatisfactory system and to make recommendations for its improvement.

Levy Failure Cited
The mayor reminded that the proposed 11 mill levy to provide free garbage disposal had been rejected at the November election, and that a "situation far from satisfactory exists."

He suggested that the next best plan to give the households the service desired might be to lease or rent the equipment from H. A. Leith and hire a driver capable of working every day, or as often as necessary to take care of the collection.

A card system for payment could be used, for those desiring the service. Under the present system, Mr. Leith is under contract to the city to furnish the horse and wagon and the driver, and each home pays a fee.

In other business, Mayor Peters asked that some of the money appropriated for parks this year be spent at the city reservoir as the beginning for a park which later could be dedicated as a memorial to servicemen.

He pointed out that as high as 600 had registered in one day during the summer at the Roadside park in the East End and if such a spot was set up at the city reservoir it would no doubt prove just as popular.

Suggests Play Lot
Along this same trend, Mr. Stewart suggested that a plot of ground opposite the Roadside park be improved for a playlot. His motion was approved that the council clerk communicate with the state director of roadside parks to learn if there is a possibility of having the ground improved on the north side of routes 7 and 45.

A communication from Dr. J. V. Rice, health commissioner, that his salary be increased to $100, was received and filed. He said that living costs have increased and the amount of time a doctor can give has decreased. He said that the salary is $50—the same as it was 20 years ago.

After the reading of the mayor's report of $399.37 collected in fines for December, Mr. Stewart asked if there was a reason for the fines for each month being much less since October, when councilmen warned the mayor that gambling should pay heavier fines. He asked if the cleanup of gamblers might have caused a decrease in the number operating.

To Mr. Stewart's question, Mayor Peters replied that fines "come and go from month to month," and any drop in them is unexplainable, except that collections for violations always are less during a War Bond drive or during income tax payment time.

The trust fund committee of the cemetery endowment fund was instructed to investigate the financial institutions of the city with a view of depositing its $11,121.00 in some institution that can put up proper security.

During the time set aside for reports of the various committees, Mr. Stewart inquired of Safety Service Director C. Fred Gluth if monthly checkups and reports are being made by the flood wall inspector as required in the ordinance creating the job, and if the equipment is in good shape.

Mr. Gluth replied that the inspector is turning in two reports monthly; one for the U. S. engineers and one for the city, and the equipment is in satisfactory condition. He added that last week that the water was within 15 inches of the point where it is necessary to start the sanitary pumps.

He said that when the stage reaches 27 feet, sewage pumps must be started, while the other pumps go into operation when the river goes to 33 feet.

the selective service system" must be anticipated. He added:

"We must recognize the necessity of reconsidering the standards governing the deferment of agricultural workers, since this group represents the largest remaining source of young men for military service."

Farm Goals Stressed

The war mobilization director proposed that congress consider imposing "some control over those found physically disqualified for military service so that they may render their war service in essential war activities."

The chief executive Tuesday endorsed substantially the recommendations of the Byrnes' report.

As compared with the 364,000 men in the 18 to 25 age range with agricultural deferments, Mr. Byrnes said only 35,000 to 40,000 in the same group were deferred for industry and medicine, while a small number are deferred for service in the merchant marine.

Some 1,600,000 men in the 18-37 draft age range have been deferred as essential farm workers.

Aids to Mr. Jones said agriculture has the smallest number of workers in 34 years. Yet farm production goals for 1945 call for maintenance of output at last year's record level to meet military and civilian food and fiber needs.

The number of farm workers deferred under the selective service system is equivalent to about 18 percent of the total number of farm operators and hired workers on farms on Dec. 1.

The other 82 percent is said to be made up largely of women, children and older men.

Overnight, Third army armored elements beat off strong counterattacks in the Michamps area and near Harzy, four miles due east.

Below Bastogne the Germans heavily shelled Honville, a mile east of the Arlon road.

German traffic inside the bulge is reported hugging escape roads in an effort to escape detection. Artillery and planes gave the moving Germans attention.

An American counter-attack against a German thrust near Werbeld, three miles west of the German steel town of Volkingen on the Saar, pushed the front back as far as Schaffhausen, virtually restoring the original position.

The Americans cleared the Germans from the Blesbruck forest a mile south of the town.

The Germans apparently still hold their two-mile penetration along a front of approximately five miles southeast of the Maginot fortress town of Bitche.

CHAPLIN'S CASE HEADS FOR JURY

Judge's Instructions Remain Before Group Retires

By The Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.—A jury starts deliberating today on whether Charlie Chaplin—pictured by Joan Berry's attorney as a "lecherous character" and by his own lawyer as a man proved innocent by science—is the father of her 14-month-old daughter.

Only the judge's instructions remain before the seven women and five men retire to the jury room, trailing such mental echoes as the final plea of Joan's 77-year-old counsel, Joseph Scott:

"Tell it to him! Give it to him! Let him know that 'from now on, you're stopped in your tracks.'"

"You'll Sleep Well . . ."

Mr. Scott told the jurors: "You'll sleep well the night you give this baby a name. You'll lengthen your days when you make Chaplin realize that the law treats him the same as a bum down on skid row."

Miss Berry, 24, the actor-producer's former drama pupil, wants him adjudged the father of her baby Carol Ann and required to pay $2,500 monthly support.

The 55-year-old comedian's lawyer, Charles E. Millikan, in his final argument stressed the testimony of three physicians, who said blood tests showed Mr. Chaplin could not be the parent.

"You're not obligated to accept this testimony. The court will instruct you that the law does not declare this evidence conclusive or unanswerable."

Crucifixion Recounted
Mr. Millikan recounted the crucifixion and said, "the truth was not crucified with him."

"And the truth in this case is that Mr. Chaplin is not the father," Mr. Millikan added.

He brought the response from Mr. Scott:

"I'm an old man, but I've never before heard a man put up as a synonym for Christ."

RAMSAY

er in chief under Gen. Eisenhower, the supreme Allied commander, named to that post when Gen. Eisenhower moved to London to plan the invasion of the continent.

Adm. Ramsay was the second of the Eisenhower invasion command to be lost.

Air Chief Marshal Trafford L. Leigh-Mallory, head of the Allied aerial forces, recently was reported missing en route to a new station in the southeast Asia command.

Adm. Ramsay was in command of British naval forces at Dover at the time of the Dunkerque evacuation and was knighted for his achievement in bringing home 288,000 British and French soldiers.

His service in this war climaxed 45 years in the British Royal navy. He had been retired in 1935 after serving as chief of staff of the British home fleet, but was recalled to duty in 1939.

The plans he and his staff formulated culminated in the greatest naval operation in history, the landing of an unbroken torrent of Allied troops and armament on the shores of France on and after June 6, 1944.

He was born in 1883, son of the late Brig. Gen. and Mrs. W. A. Ramsay. He entered the royal navy in 1898 and received his first command in 1915 in the Dover patrol. Later he joined the staff of the imperial defense college and then was named commander of the battleship Royal Sovereign.

He became a rear admiral and chief of staff of the home fleet in 1935, serving in that post until his retirement. He was advanced to the rank of full admiral on his return to duty at the outbreak of the war.

Already a Knight Commander of the Bath for his achievement at Dunkerque, Adm. Ramsay was made a Knight of the British Empire for his distinguished services in planning and executing the naval operations in the invasion of Sicily. He also received the Order of Ushakov, highest Russian decoration awarded for naval men outside the Soviet Union.

CASH AND EQUIPMENT OF TOWNSHIP REMAIN

Division Debated Of $2,200 And Trucks, Grader

Assets of former Liverpool township, including about $2,200 in cash and several thousands of dollars worth of road maintenance equipment, are awaiting disposition—apparently a division between East Liverpool and the township as it now is constituted.

The question of disposing of the cash balance and the machinery has not been settled since the city and township were divorced Dec. 26 by action of county commissioners.

In effect, the subdivision to which they belonged no longer exists, as it was dissolved before two new townships were created—one comprised of the city area and the other of the area embraced by the former township area outside the city.

The township's road machinery includes two trucks—one virtually new—and a grader and a tractor in addition to many other smaller pieces of machinery and tools.

Since the former township included East Liverpool and the nearby area as well, some officials anticipate the undisputed cash and the machinery will be divided between the city and the present township area.

The division might be based on property valuations of the two areas in order to pro rate the property and money on the basis of taxes paid by property holders of the two, officials said.

ROTARIANS HEAR RABBI SARASOHN

Temple Head Asks Line Be Held Against Tyranny

Rabbi I. J. Sarasohn of the B'nai Israel temple voiced a plea to "hold the line against starvation, tyranny and world anarchy" in an address at Tuesday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary club in the Travelers hotel.

Rabbi Sarasohn, who came to East Liverpool recently to assume charge of the local Jewish congregation, was introduced by Leon Rubin, former Washington st. jeweler who will leave soon to make his home in Cleveland. About 40 members of the club attended the meeting.

"Our boys, who are holding the front line in defense of America, are putting their all, including life itself, at the service of the nation," Rabbi Sarasohn said.

"Since the news came that there is no formal Atlantic charter many have become doubtful and even cynical about the things for which we are fighting. But the ideals of America for humanity have always been clear. We are in a war for American survival."

"After our enemies are defeated we do not expect to keep them in perpetual subjection. We want to give them a chance to grow away from their fallacies and to realize the advantages of democracy and freedom."

The speaker at the close of his address told the story of four chaplains, two Protestants, a Jew and a Catholic, who handed over their life-belts to sinking service men after their ship had been torpedoed, and declared "This should be an inspiration to all of us."

English Youngsters Drag Along Jive Talk To Staid Old Homes

LOS ANGELES

ONE of the most fascinating stories I've heard in this war is that one of the English mothers whose children have just arrived home talking "jive" and "swing" after four years in the United States.

Goodness knows, even American parents have a hard enough time understanding their children these days. You can imagine what is happening in conservative English homes when the youngsters discuss the changing of the guard at Buckingham palace as being "off the cob, but groovy" or refer to Lord Halifax as looking like a tall Sinatra.

Even the terms "zoot" and "beat me daddy" are beginning to turn up inside the hallowed precincts of Oxford and Cambridge. Now they're afraid American slang may sweep the nation. Of course, the same thing may happen to us here. Our own G. I.'s may come home with English accents and—oh, my goodness! can you imagine going to Brooklyn in a couple of years and finding everyone there talking like Noel Coward?

SUPREME COURT AGREES ON COAL PAY CASE STUDY

Underground Question Will Be Reviewed; Justices Take Other Actions

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 — The Supreme Court agreed Tuesday to review a decision that bituminous coal miners are entitled to portal-to-portal underground wages.

The Jewell Ridge Coal Corp., employing about 900 men in two mines in Western Virginia, asked the tribunal to study the decision by the Fourth federal circuit court.

The company said the decision was based on the Supreme Court's finding last year that iron ore miners are entitled to portal-to-portal pay for the time spent in traveling from the mouth of the mine and the place where the ore is mined.

The firm contended the iron ore miners case dealt with facts different from those affecting its own situation.

Review was granted a government suit charging groups of unions and employers violated the Sherman anti-trust act by conspiring to raise and fix wages and prices of products.

Engaged in Lumber Work

The groups are engaged in the lumber and mill work industry in the San Francisco bay area.

The government charged the employers acceded to wage demands by the unions in exchange for an agreement by the unions to prevent the sale and shipment into the bay area of lumber products made under wage and working conditions lower than those in the agreement.

The union group included the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (A.F.L.) and several affiliated organizations. The employers' group included Lumber Products association, Inc., and others.

The court also agreed to study an Ohio supreme court decision that action by the state's industrial commission in allowing workmen's compensation claims may not be reviewed.

The Copperweld Steel Co. of Warren, O., protested that the decision denied it due process and equal protection of law.

The decision was given in a case involving the death of two employees and injury of four others in an automobile-train collision.

The company contended the employees had left the plant.

Applies To Piece Workers

The court ruled that the wage-hour law is applicable to piece workers. Justice Murphy delivered the court's 8-1 opinion, with Justice Roberts dissenting.

The lower court finding in California was made in a government complaint, which charged Herman Rosenwasser, doing business under the firm name of Perfect Garment Co. had violated provisions of the law.

In reversing the lower court, the Supreme Court's opinion said that "neither the policy of the act nor the legislative history gives any real basis for excluding piece workers from the benefits of the statute."

The court also decided unanimously that federal public housing authority dwelling units in Cleveland are not subject to taxation by the state of Ohio and its legal subdivisions. It ruled similarly about the Laurel Homes project in Cincinnati.

NEW YORK — The Bronx zoo has shipped an urgently-requested "backyard collection" of familiar mammals and birds to the Concepcion zoo in Chile.

The shipment is the American part of an international exchange of animals common in one country but rare in another.

It includes two skunks, two opossums, two coyotes, two sparrow hawks, one gray fox and one red-tailed hawk, none of which are native to Chile.

NEW YORK — While the Germans were ravaging Russia, they were particularly harassed by "Granddad," an effective guerrilla chief whose specialty was night raiding and train wrecking.

The Nazis put a price on "his" head and instituted many fruitless searches for "him." Granddad, the Moscow representative of Russian war relief now reveals, was 23-year-old Vera Khokholova, who has returned to Minsk to teach class 9-B in the public school.

HORSE RACING COMES TO END

Absenteeism Said Reason In Clamping Ban On Tracks

By The Associated Press.

Horse racing came to the end of the road today and estimates on when it might get started again varied from a few months to four years.

Bowing to the request from War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes that race tracks close down in the interests of the war effort, they did just that.

Today there wasn't a race horse running anywhere in the country for prize money.

The ban is on until there's a lot less emphasis on hitting the war effort hard.

Hopeful of Spring Meetings. At New York, racing officials spoke hopefully of spring meetings but Herbert Bayard Swope, recently chairman of the state racing commission said he did not look for any resumption in April.

A trainer at Miami, R. T. Shepp of the R. J. Dienst stable, commented: "We won't run again for four years."

At New Orleans, Jockey Dell (J) Jessop headed back to Phoenix "where I'll punch cattle again."

This was right in line with recommendations by the war manpower commission as to what racing personnel can do now to help the war effort.

Could Fill Many Jobs. Jockeys, said the WMC at Washington, would make excellent teamsters, and also could qualify as riders in logging camps, and for agricultural such as farm hand, cowpuncher, horsewrangler, horse breaker and sheep herder.

"Although some race track employees may find it necessary to work at reduced earnings, others may find even better paying jobs," WMC commented, but insisted there are plenty of jobs for all.

Jockeys, race track officials, mutual operators, stablemen, clerks and others—in critical war industries.

There have been no recent reports of teamsters and cowpunchers making $10,000, the unofficial estimate of the average annual earnings of the nation's 1,800 professional jockeys.

Absenteeism Reason For Ban. A Washington official who withheld use of his name said absenteeism in war plants near race tracks was the real reason behind the government closure action.

At Washington the office of defense transportation, which hasn't liked the use of travel facilities for horses and their followers, let up a little on its ban-accompanying provision.

It said horses and dogs (dog racing is over, too) may be shipped outside the United States for racing purposes—provided the races are held more than 300 miles beyond the borders. That's too far for most horse players to go.

From Mexico City came a report that there are enough horses there already.

What about the bookies and their feverish customers? One unconcerned view is that they're used to headaches—this thing of eating aspirin like popcorn is nothing new to them.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Baseball's major league leaders meet here Friday to draft a new major league agreement re-creating the office of commissioner and presumably whittling down the big stick the late K. M. Landis waved inexorably for 24 years.

The job of assembling a work formula for Landis' successor falls to a committee, including five representatives each from the American and National leagues. It was handed this task at the leagues' recent New York meeting.

Wants New Agreement. Apparently sounding the sentiments of most owners, P. K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs and a committee member, said he would like to see a new agreement which would "codify the rules" of baseball operation under a commissioner.

He referred to a clause in the old agreement which gave Landis carte blanche in matters relating to baseball. The Judge's preemptory use of this cudgel often bruised the pocketbooks as well as the feelings of some club officials.

Friday's meeting ostensibly will be limited to discussion of an agreement which will be presented to a full meeting of owners here in February.

Won't Name Candidates. Both Wrigley and Will Harridge, American league president and member of a three-man council temporarily governing baseball, said there was no likelihood any candidates would be considered for the commissionership at this time.

"That's a job for all the owners and our committee is authorized only to draft a suitable agreement," asserted Wrigley.

Neither Harridge nor Wrigley appeared concerned over the possibility the federal crack-down on 4-F men might threaten the 1945 campaign.

"No one can say what will happen between now and spring on the war fronts," said Wrigley. "We think we can go, but there's no use getting excited about it any more than just after Pearl Harbor. We'll fit in with the rest of the country."

Giles Sinks Foul Toss In Last Five Seconds

Victory Is Third, Evens Season's Series With Rival; Ken Carter Sparks Win; Walters Leopard Star

"Winnie" Giles, sub forward, sank only one foul during the terry Wellsville-Midland cage battle at the Beacom Memorial gym Tuesday night, but the solitary charity toss was enough to give the Bengals their third victory in five starts, a hard-earned 31-to-30 win.

The Wellsville triumph evened the series for the season with Midland.

After leading the Leopards throughout the first three periods, the Orange and Black showed signs of tiring due to their long layoff and the Pennsylvanians knotted the count early in the final session. The score was tied two other times during the quarter, and with only five seconds remaining Giles was fouled and promptly converted to break the deadlock.

Forty-nine persons were called by Referee A. Gerald Capezzuti during the contest, 27 against the Leopards and 22 against the Bengals.

Outscored from the field, 11-5, Coach Wally Ingalls' cagers dropped in 15 of their 27 attempts, while the passers of Coach Bill Walters made only eight of their 22 tries.

Wellsville was without the services of Jack Stewart, veteran guard, but he is expected to be ready for the East Palestine clash on the Beacom Memorial floor Friday night.

Coach Ingalls announced he will lose the services of Center Ken Carter at the end of the first term, but will gain the services of Zeke Moore, a guard.

Last night the Bengals held leads of 14-0 at the end of the first quarter, 19-17, at the half and 25-22 at the third-quarter mark before the Gold and Blue basketweavers caught up.

Lanky Ken Carter sparked the Bengals with three fielders and a pair of fouls for eight points. Gene McClure dropped in six markers and Bill Fredericks tallied five.

Guard Bill Walters paced the Leopards with six counters, while Guard Orland DiCicco tossed in five.

The Midland reserves topped the Bengal subs, 36-32, in an overtime preliminary.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—When that expected sports boom begins after the war look for basketball to spread out faster than any other sport. Even in war time the cage game has registered some notable gains, especially in New England and the deep south, sections that always could take it or leave it. Reports from Boston say the Garden doubleheaders there are beginning to catch on and that Boston high schools are playing the game for the first time in about 30 years.

The Boston Garden will be host to two schoolboy tournaments in March. Holy Cross is the only "home" college. A attraction now but in post-war years the promoters hope to have a half dozen good local teams and as many from other parts of New England to oppose clubs from other sections.

You make 'em. Florida offers a good example of how service teams are bringing good basketball to sections that have produced few standouts. . . . Among former college aces in action there are Gus Broberg, Dartmouth; Stan Waxman, Long Island; Leo Klier, Notre Dame; Tommy Thompson, Michigan; Chuck Joachim, Mt. Union; Dave Kaiser, Wisconsin; Bill Simpson, Seton Hall; and Phil Seghi, Northwestern. Fans who watch them a while won't be satisfied with second rate performances later.

A Give-And-Take Affair

Continuing Differences Loom Among Allies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 — Diplomats here settled down today for a give and take among the major Allies on post-war Europe to last long after the shooting is stopped.

President Roosevelt set the stage for numerous compromises when he offered little hope Allied differences can be reconciled at his forthcoming meeting with Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

The Allies have a good set of principles, he said, but the problem is how to apply them to every hill and valley. The President said you do the best you can.

Mr. Roosevelt not only agreed with reporters that differences exist, but emphasized he expects them to continue in one form or another.

Earlier, British Ambassador Lord Halifax had pointed out the many questions on which the Allies still have stormy sailings by stating that he and Secretary of State Stettinius are seeking better means of exchanging information among Britain, the U. S. and Russia.

The President minimized difficulties of consultation, presumably looking forward to his meeting with Mr. Churchill and Premier Stalin due early in February. He refused to say whether a date already has been set, declaring that whether or not Mr. Stettinius accompanies him will be known only after the meeting.

Mr. Roosevelt retorted to questions on whether he expects differences to be reconciled at the meeting with the query — aren't there always differences?

He did not mention European boundary settlements, although this is expected to figure prominently among points discussed.

Mr. Stettinius said earlier in the day the United States has made several studies on the future map of Europe.

Other sources disclosed that Washington experts have made recommendations to the American government on some European boundaries, but that these have not been approved by top United States officials.

Studies developed thus far have closely to the pre-war map of Europe.

PRIME exception is Germany, where no decision has been made on partition. Britain and Russia have plumped for moving the German-Polish border westward to compensate Poland for land claimed by Russia. The United States is expected to concur after Polish diplomatic troubles are solved.

The Big Three declared in Moscow a year ago that they wanted an independent Austria revived. Other declarations have promised pre-Munich status to Czechoslovakia.

While the state department attitude has been that territorial decisions should be postponed until after the war, the United States has indicated no objection to decisions made mutually. These include Romanian return of Bessarabia to Russia and rectification of the Russo-Finnish border.

The adjustments were made subject to final ratification at the peace table.

Ward's board chairman, Sewell L. Avery, who has maintained the seizure was unconstitutional, remained in his office Tuesday and told reporters he had no comment to make.

The army is directing operations in 16 properties—10 retail stores, three mail order houses and three warehouses. The seizure of all the facilities culminated labor disputes of long standing and refusal of Ward's to comply with war labor board directives for union maintenance of membership and wage increases.

Later, Gen. Joseph W. Byron, military manager, who directed the army's movements yesterday, said officials or other employees dismissed for non-cooperation with the army face possible selective service reclassification.

ARMY TIGHTENS WARD CONTROL

Federal Grand Jury Studies Alleged Interference

By The Associated Press. CHICAGO, Jan. 3 — The army tightened its control today over the federally-seized Montgomery Ward & Co. properties in seven cities.

Acting swiftly, army officials Tuesday moved to gain complete authority in operating the big mail order house facilities. The first step was the ousting of 11 company officials, whom army men said remained defiant since the military took over last Thursday and had refused to cooperate.

The alleged interference in the army's operation is being investigated by a federal grand jury and federal attorneys have filed 18 affidavits in connection with the government's petition for an injunction to prevent company interference and a declaratory judgment upholding legality of the seizure, ordered by President Roosevelt. A federal court hearing is scheduled next Monday.

Maj. Gen. Joseph W. Byron, military manager, who directed the army's movements yesterday, said officials or other employees dismissed for non-cooperation with the army face possible selective service reclassification.

War Diary

By HAL BOYLE

Associated Press Writer Staff

IN Germany—(Delayed)—No man in the U. S. army hates the Germans worse than Lt. Dillard E. Boland of Clinton, S. C.—but it took six months of fighting before his grudge became personal.

Lt. Boland, who fought through the Normandy and Brest campaigns in France, was leading his platoon in an attack when a shell struck nearby. One small fragment ripped through the sleeve of his jacket and cut a package of cigarettes in his breast pocket. Then it passed through the other side of his shirt, jacket and sleeve. The lieutenant didn't get a scratch.

"I didn't mind those Heinies ruining my shirt and jacket and scaring me half to death," said Lt. Boland, "but that hunk of shrapnel cut my last pack of cigarettes right in half—and at the time when we couldn't get cigarettes for love or money."

Staff Sgt. Cyrus Ainsworth, 23, of Crossback, Tex., said he met an old German soldier still serving in the army although he had a wooden leg.

"How are they feeding in the American army these days?" asked the German. "The same as in the last war?"

"Better," Sgt. Ainsworth retorted. "Then it's a good time to surrender again," said the German, who added that he'd been captured by the World War I A.E.F.

FOUR German soldiers came running across no man's land toward the American lines, waving long objects.

Fearful of an enemy trick, Pvt. Walter H. Zeims of Chicago and Charles J. Allen of Thomasville, N. C., kept their rifles leveled as the enemy quartet came forward, shouting: "Kamerad!"

They turned out to be cooks, carrying long loaves of bread. They said that while bringing up the supper to their company, they decided to get out of the war.

They dumped the whole meal into the mud, except for a half-dozen loaves of bread. These they brought along as peace offerings.

Taking one bite at the heavy German bread, Pvt. Zeims spat it out and observed:

"No wonder some of these guys are so anxious to surrender. If that's the kind of stuff the Jerries are eating, you can see why they are glad to get into a PW camp where they can get a decent meal."

MALES ARE STRONGER, IN THE EYES, AT LEAST

By The Associated Press. NEW YORK—More women need glasses than men, according to a study embracing school children and adults.

Under 7 years, when the eyeball still is growing, it was found that visual defects were divided equally between the sexes, reports the Better Vision Institute.

In the age group from 7 to 10, 55 percent of the seeing defects were found in girls; in the 11-14 group, it rose to 59 percent.

The Gallup Poll Finds:

POST-WAR CUTS IN PAY EXPECTED BY U.S. WORKERS

71% Believe High Levels Of National Income Won't Be Maintained

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 3 — Although a great deal of post-war planning is being predicted upon a high national income, the American public is not convinced that income levels for workers will be maintained once the war ends.

The fact is that right now, the vast majority among the American voting public expect that workers will make less money after the war than they are making now. Moreover, their thinking on the post-war income question is consistent with their feeling about post-war job prospects. A recent survey showed a majority believing that once the war ends not everyone who wants a job is going to be able to find one.

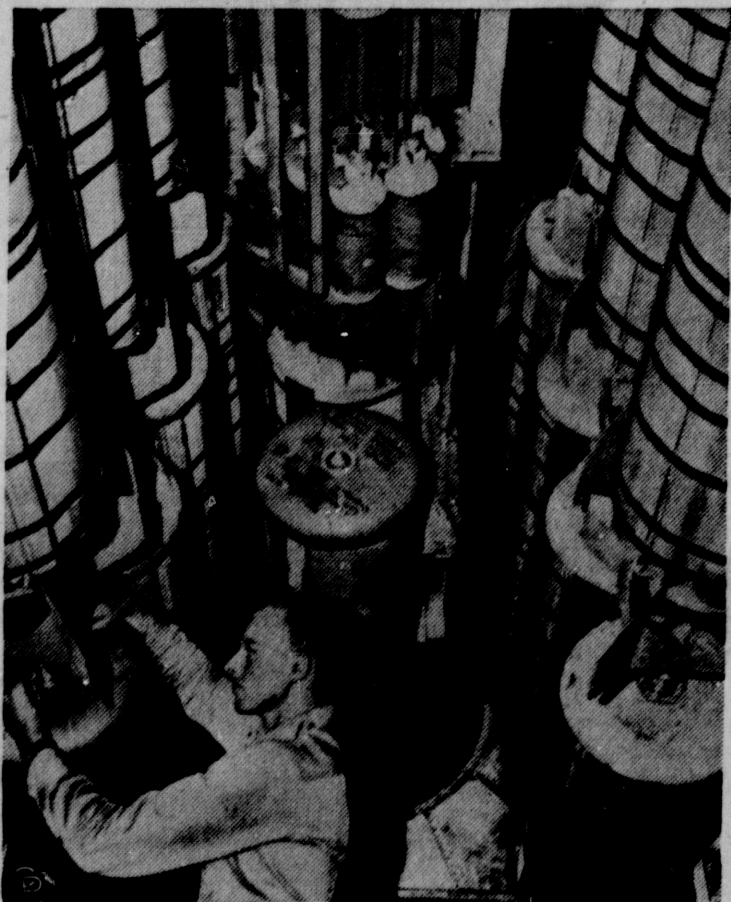

The question asked throughout the country on the present survey is this: "After the war do you think the weekly income of workers will be about the same as it is now, or will it be more, or less?"

The results:
About the same 20%
More 71%
Less 7%
No opinion 4%

Thus, seven in every 10 say they think workers will make less after the war, only two in 10 think business and industry will be able to maintain existing levels.

One in 20, highly optimistic, see a larger weekly income for workers after the war.

the various groups included in the cross-section shows some interesting facts.

More women are inclined to be pessimistic than men. Seventy-four percent of the women think the weekly income of workers will be less after the war than it is now. This compares with a vote of 68 percent among men.

Farmers, traditionally opposed to high wages in industry, could be revealing an element of wishful thinking in their vote on the question. Seventy-seven percent — a greater proportion than in any other group — say they think workers' weekly income will drop after the war is over.

On the other hand, the vote of the white collar workers of the nation — 74 percent think workers' income will drop — probably reveals a fear of what is going to happen in the post-war period when millions of fighting men will return expecting jobs.

Here are tables showing the thinking among the various groups:

CONSERVE COAL, ICKES ASKS U. S.

Gap Between Consumption, Production Greatest Yet

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 — The greatest gap between consumption and production of bituminous coal since war was declared has brought a new warning to conserve supplies.

The solid fuels administration said preliminary figures indicate that consumption may have exceeded output by 11,500,000 tons. "This means," said Administrator Harold Ickes, "that many industries will have to depend on their stock piles for a substantial part of their fuel. If we are to get through the winter without distress to the civilian population or curtailing of industrial production every consumer will have to conserve to the limit."

"He will have to take whatever usable fuel is made available to him, instead of insisting on a preferred kind."

Meanwhile, in producing districts 1, 2, 3, 4 and 6 in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland and northern West Virginia, reductions of delivery commitments by shippers of northern Appalachian bituminous coal were ordered so as to spread available supplies around. Shippers who have insufficient coal to fill all commitments are directed to reduce January deliveries by as much as 40 percent if necessary — to consumers who have supplies for 40 days or more.

RACE DEVELOPS ON PAY BOOSTS

Legislature Hastens Action After Lausche Hits Plan

By E. E. EASTERLY
Associated Press Staff Writer
COLUMBUS, Jan. 3 — A race is underway in the Ohio legislature to appropriate a $2,950,000 bonus for state employees before Gov. John W. Bricker leaves office next Monday.

Gov. Bricker has recommended the proposal, a maximum pay increase of 20 percent retroactive to July 1, 1944. His successor, Gov. elect Frank J. Lausche, Tuesday night expressed opposition.

Mr. Lausche could veto the bill if it were passed after Monday.

While Gov. Bricker's Republican colleagues in the legislature have the votes to override a veto, they possess in the senate only the bare three-fifths necessary. One defection from their ranks would mean failure if the Democratic senators stood by Mr. Lausche.

Says Boost Not Justified
The governor-elect did not say he would veto the bonus measure. Pointing out the cost, he asserted he does not believe there is justification for it and added:

"The taxpayers deserve better treatment than that."

Mr. Lausche endorsed the regular salary increases, up to 30 percent, proposed in the partial appropriation bill.

He added that while the increases exceeded the 15 percent over the 1941 pay level specified in the national stabilization act, he felt the delay in raising state employees' income might justify the excess. He estimated the increases would cost $11,600,000 in 1945 and 1946.

Passage of the $33,812,403 partial appropriation bill with the salary increases is expected in the senate today and some Republicans hope to crowd through the bonus bill at the same time. The measures then would go to the house for consideration.

Senate Confirms Glander

The senate, awaiting committee action on the appropriations measure needed to finance operation of the state government during the first six months of this year, confirmed the appointment of C. Emory Glander as state tax commissioner, 22 to 5.

Sen. James Metzbaum (D) of Cuyahoga county led the opposition. Pointing out that Mr. Glander had been promoted from executive secretary to Gov. Bricker and that the governor would be practicing law after Jan. 8, he said Gov. Bricker might have occasion to appear before his former subordinate on tax matters.

"What questions," he asked, "would that cause to arise in the public mind?"

Sen. William M. Boyd (D) of Cuyahoga county described Mr. Glander as "a fine gentleman in every respect" and said Sen. Metzbaum had found "absolutely nothing to say" against the appointment.

The senate permitted Sen. Frank S. Day (D) of Cuyahoga county to resign from the liquor control and political subdivisions committees. Sen. Day explained he cared only to serve on the commerce and labor committee, an assignment denied him.

Blizzard Results In Shortage Of Gas, Coal, Milk And Bread

By The Associated Press.
Shortages of gas, coal, milk and bread plagued many areas of Ohio today in the aftermath of one of the worst blizzards in Buckeye state history.

Milk deliveries were curtailed in many sections as milk trucks were unable to proceed through drift-clogged highways.

In Canton, the supply was cut as much as 75 percent, while in Cleveland H. W. Ingersoll Jr., executive secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers of Cleveland, said local dairies will do their own rationing, with institutions such as hospitals having first call.

Natural gas service to industries was cut sharply throughout the state, while domestic consumers were urged to make minimum use of facilities.

Appeals To Consumers

The East Ohio Gas Co. in newspaper advertisements appealed to consumers who heat their houses with gas to reduce the temperature in their homes to 65 degrees.

Cincinnati experienced its worst gas shortage since the winter of 1917-18. H. C. Blackwell, president of the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co., asked City Manager W. R. Kellogg to close bars and cafes as one means of cutting down consumption.

After conferring with other city officials, Mr. Kellogg said he did not consider the situation "serious enough to call council into special session to declare a state of emergency," which would be necessary to close night clubs and cafes legally.

Approximately 40 industries in the Cincinnati area were deprived of their gas supply, but only about a dozen ceased operations in affected departments.

Steel Plants Are Hit

Republic Steel Corp., the nation's third largest steel producer, reported 8,000 to 10,000 workers idle in plants throughout eastern Ohio because of the gas shortage. The concern said its daily output of steel ingots is off approximately 5,000 tons, in addition to many tons of semi-finished steel.

Gas service was slashed 50 to 75 percent in the Canton-Massillon area, while at Columbus the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. reported some plants already out of operation.

Bread ran short in some communities, particularly Pistoria, which depends largely on deliveries from Cleveland and Toledo bakeries.

The coal shortage was most acute in Cleveland, where Carl E. Moore, secretary of the Retail Coal Dealers' association there, said low supplies combined with a shortage of drivers to make the situation serious.
